

Winter Is Coming!

2 Tiger Twin Kittens Need Good Homes!

Just after Memorial Day, a mother cat and her newborn kittens needed a safe place to live and grow, so they came to stay with us for the summer. They've played, they've eaten, they've slept, and they've played some more. They've grown from tiny balls of fur completely dependent on Mom to independent, active kittens ready to strike out on their own.

So far, we've been able to find good homes for Mama Cat and three of her kittens. However, there's still a set of tiger twins – a boy and girl – who are waiting for adoption. Winter will soon be upon us. Can you help us find them them warm, loving homes?

With the help and generosity of the veterinarian team at His Hands Extended Sanctuary, both tiger kittens have been spayed & neutered and have received all three rounds of their inoculation shots, including rabies. They've received regular Revolution treatments, and are free of fleas and worms. They are healthy, interactive, playful, and friendly. Both are domestic short-hairs with silky, smooth coats and love to purr. They're almost identical, with just enough difference to tell them apart when looking closely. Please see www.offthedial.com for more pictures.

To adopt either or both of these kittens, we ask two things in consideration of all the time, effort, and expense that's gone into preparing them for their permanent homes. First, we'll need the name and phone number of your veterinarian so we can confirm a positive history of pet care. Second, we would appreciate a donation to His Hands Extended Sanctuary to help them in their mission of rescuing homeless, abandoned pets.

If you'd like to talk about making either of these tiger kittens a part of your home and family, please contact us at 937-543-2844 or email us at kittens@offthedial.com.
